

Licensing Policies And How to Request Permission Regarding   Reproduction Of Contents Of Society Publications

Japanese Society of Hematology

Revised October 15, 2023

Copyright to all works published in the society journals, the “International Journal of Hematology” and “Rinsho Ketsueki (Japanese Journal of Clinical Hematology)”, belongs to the Japanese Society of Hematology (JSH). Users of all copyrighted works published in either journal must follow the rules set forth below.

Users other than authors

[Non-Commercial Use Such As Not-For-Profit Research And/Or Education]

It is possible to cite works published in the International Journal of Hematology and Rinsho Ketsueki (Japanese Journal of Clinical Hematology) without requesting permission, for the following uses.

1. Text excerpts:
  - Always indicate the source of the excerpted text; and
  - There must be necessity to quote and clear distinction between quoted passages and original text.
2. Reproduction of figures:
  - Indicate source, following the format example for cited works;
  - No modification of figures is permitted; and
  - Reproduction of up to three figures per article is permitted.

[Commercial Use]

Request permission of reproduction and pay fees as set forth below.

1. [Licensed work]
  - Only figures;
  - Reproduction of original text is, in principle, not permitted;
  - Modifications are, in principle, not permitted. In cases where it is necessary to modify the original text, notify and request permission from the JSH editorial office of the intended modifications in advance. Modifications are permitted only in cases in which the requested modifications are approved by the head of the editorial committee. It should be noted that explanation to any modifications must be made in text accompanying the modified figure.

2. Terms for permission. A Permission Form (separate form) must be submitted.

(a) To be charged with uses in the following media formats:

- (1) Books, pamphlets and other printed matter;
- (2) Presentations (such as PowerPoint); and
- (3) Posting to Internet.

- Must only be posted in a non-downloadable format;
- Inform the JSH editorial office of the URL to which the figures will be posted; and

- Can be posted within 6 months or a year. Further request is necessary when exceeding the permission period. Inform the JSH editorial office of the date that the figures will be deleted from website.

(4) E-books

(b) Receive confirmation from the lead author

3. User fees

(a) 10 cents per figure, charged on a per copy basis for printed materials (tax not included).

(b) Presentation and online uses charged on a flat fee basis of 500 US dollars per six months (tax not included), as it is difficult to determine the precise number of views.

(c) 2,000 US dollars per figure for e-books (tax not included).

(d) Remit user fees to the specified bank account within one month of invoicing.

4. How to request permission to reproduce content

Users wishing to request permission to reproduce content should, after confirming the terms above, fill out two copies of the Permission Form (separate form), and send the same to the JSH editorial office by e-mail. Upon receipt of the Permission Form, the JSH editorial office will decide in its sole discretion whether permission is granted, and (if granted) send a certificate of permission of reproduction with an invoice for user fees. Please remit any user fees within one month of the receipt of the invoice.

* Other application formats including all the necessary information from the Permission Form are also acceptable.

Re-use by authors

Authors who have published works in International Journal of Hematology and/or Rinsho Ketsueki (Japanese Journal of Clinical Hematology) may use their own works only to promote scientific activities, classroom teaching, and academic communications. Authors may also use their published works (hereunder referred to as the “Article(s)”) for uses described below after transferring copyright to the Society. It should be paid attention to that the uses not described below are not permitted.

※ Note: Commercial and institutional uses are not permitted.

※ Note: Use of the final author’s version only is permitted. Use of any files created for the journal or online journal by a publisher is not permitted.

- ① Creation of copies (paper or digital) for personal use by the author or for use in classroom teaching by the author;
- ② Distribution (including distribution by email) of copies created for personal use by the author;
- ③ Distribution of copies of the Article to meeting or conference attendees for the purposes of introducing the Article;
- ④ Uses by the author’s employer for training purposes within a company or a campus;
- ⑤ The author retains rights to patents, trademarks, processes and/or procedures described in published articles.
- ⑥ Making of derivative works using all or part of the Article (including expansion of the content of the Article to book-length format), provided that in each derivative work, specify the Article published in “International Journal of Hematology” or Rinsho Ketsueki (Japanese Journal of Clinical Hematology) as the original source; and
- ⑦ Posting to the author’s personal or institutional website*

*See Policies for posting to institutional repository.
